Why does it happen and what can be done about it? A: There's a couple of common issues that would cause this. First, the Python interpreter that's used to run your django code is from a different version than what you used to run the django dev server. Second, it's possible that your version of Django is in pycache but the PyCharm interpreter isn't. I would log into your server (ssh if you're using an admin interface, apache if you're not), open a browser, open the developer console, and run "python -c import django". If it says that it's looking for a module "django", then you've got the wrong version of django on your development machine. If it prints a bunch of errors in the browser developer console but Python doesn't complain, then it's possible you have a version of django that's in pycache but you haven't installed it for this specific project. If that's the case, you're going to have to find out which version of Django you need to install, build your project from source, and install the required Python package (through pip or easy_install) for that version. Let me know if you need more help.

Executive functioning of adolescents with early-onset type 1 diabetes. The study objective was to investigate the executive function of adolescents with early-onset type 1 diabetes. Seventeen adolescents with type 1 diabetes and 17 matched controls without diabetes (age: 12.6-16.5 years) performed a global executive function assessment battery to examine inhibition, set shifting, self-monitoring, planning, and self-reflection. The adolescents with type 1 diabetes performed significantly worse on the inhibitory control and set-shifting measures but not on planning or self-reflection. The poor performance was associated with a recent increase in glycated hemoglobin levels. The performance of adolescents with type 1 diabetes could be impaired even in the early stage of their disease, and a glycemic response could be linked to the severity of the executive function deficits. The findings suggest that adolescents with type 1 diabetes, who were early in the disease course, could have executive functioning deficits associated with poor glycemic control.

Q: How do I get the data from a text-file and put it into an array? I have a text-file called "names.txt". It has a person's name in each line. How
